Colorado Technical University Virtual Campus Tour Receives Recognition as "2010 Webby Award" Official Honoree

Hoffman Estates, Ill. (May 24, 2010) - The virtual campus tour of Colorado Technical University (CTU) Online was recently recognized as an official honoree by the 2010 Webby Awards.

"The virtual campus tour brings the CTU Online education experience alive in a way we weren't able to in the past. It's a visually appealing, interactive approach to introducing the online campus experience," said Wallace K. Pond, Ph.D., president and CEO of CTU. "It's a valuable tool that helps prospective students make an informed decision."

The 14th Annual Webby Awards acknowledges excellence on the Internet, and has named the CTU virtual campus tour an Official Honoree in the School/University category. Presented by The International Academy of Digital Arts and Sciences, the Official Honoree distinction is awarded to the top 15 percent of all work entered. Nearly 10,000 entries were received from all 50 states and more than 60 countries in this year's competition.

"Of the thousands of entries submitted, less than 15 percent were chosen as Official Honorees," said Doug Duty, vice president of client services at Studio North, who helped design the virtual tour for CTU. "Receiving this distinction proves that the CTU Virtual Tour truly stands out as innovative."
